

Alliance for Monetary and Financial Stability

Foundation of the Alliance for Monetary and Financial Stability

Economics and business professors who were formerly employed by the Deutsche Bundesbank founded the

"Alliance for Monetary and Financial Stability"

in Frankfurt am Main on June 14, 2013.

A member of the alliance for monetary and financial stability can be one who was a staff member of the Bundesbank, is committed to the objectives of the alliance, is recommended by at least two members, and is elected by the general assembly with a three-quarters majority.

The aim of the alliance is to promote the culture of monetary and financial stability in the public at large.

The members of the alliance are convinced that a vibrant culture of stability in a monetary union not only presupposes appropriate action on the part of politicians and central banks, but must also be well understood by – and firmly anchored in – the population.

The members of the alliance inform the public on the principles, rules and importance of a stable monetary and financial order through their teaching and research activities as well as by engaging with the media. To this end they regularly exchange information and views with the Deutsche Bundesbank.

The names of the members of the alliance are attached.
